Maria Sigua is Harbage Consulting's Human Resources and Office Manager. She assists in the development, implementation and maintenance of company policies and provides critical executive, staff, and client support on a variety of policy, public affairs, and communications projects.

Prior to joining Harbage Consulting, Maria was an account assistant with Ziegler Associates, an independent public affairs firm in Sacramento, providing communications and public affairs support to nonprofit organizations, government entities, state and national associations, and businesses. At Ziegler Associates, Maria worked with clients to develop and implement public affairs plans that included identifying key audiences, creating collateral materials, and targeting media outreach.

She previously worked at the University of California–Davis Campus Unions Event Services Department where she helped organize, plan, and manage more than 7,000 annual events held throughout the UC Davis campus. She also served as the lead assistant to the administrative services director for UC Davis' Picnic Day – the largest student-run event in the nation. Maria is a graduate of the University of California–Davis with a bachelor of arts in English and psychology. She balances her free time between taste testing happy hours throughout Sacramento, training for her next race, and reading her way through James Joyce's Ulysses.
