Freddermann Munoz serves as an Outreach Specialist at Harbage Consulting, where he provides educational outreach and communication support for the Coordinated Care Initiative and My Care My Choice projects in Los Angeles, San Bernardino and Riverside counties.

Freddermann has extensive experience in the areas of public policy, advocacy, communications, and public outreach, including developing and implementing outreach strategies for nonprofit, private, and governmental organizations.

Freddermann's professional experience includes serving as a Public Affairs Associate at Crystal Stairs, Inc. where he oversaw the public policy agenda for $100 million nonprofit child development corporation and managed the organization's childcare advocacy project Community Voices, under the tutelage of Sydney Kamlager-Dove, now California Assemblymember of the 54th Assembly District. Freddermann also gained experience working in the government sector by serving as a Field Deputy for the City of Los Angeles Council District 14, where he built coalitions with city departments, law enforcement agencies, businesses, nonprofit and community-based organizations to attain solutions to quality of life and public safety issues in the district.

Freddermann is an alumnus of the Richard Riordan Volunteer Leadership Development Program, where he trained to serve as an effective board member for nonprofit organizations, including UCLA Latino Alumni Association, Advocating Latinos in Technology Advancement (ALTA) and Inside Out Community Arts. Freddermann's motto "Connecting the Dots" reflects his philosophy that we can all create positive change in our communities by getting the right people involved. Freddermann is currently earning his master's degree in public administration from California State University, Northridge.
