Jamie Chen serves as an Outreach Specialist in San Diego with a focus on the Chinese-American communities in Southern California. She speaks fluent Mandarin as well as Taiwanese and she reads both traditional and simplified Chinese.

Before joining Harbage, Jamie was a versatile administrator turned teacher. For nine years, Jamie edited medical papers and coached doctors in speaking English at a Taiwanese cancer center, and it was there that she familiarized herself with scientific writing and developed a passion for the health care system.

Jamie is an avid hiker favoring cliffs and boulders. Her other hobbies include arranging dance choreography with her son and creating read-aloud YouTube videos of children's books.
