Chris Flannery is an Outreach Specialist with Harbage Consulting, where he works on projects related to educational outreach, stakeholder engagement and the implementation of public health programs in California.

Currently, Chris works with the California Department of Health Care Services (DHCS) to implement the Health Homes Program (HHP), which is a new health care program that gives qualifying Medi-Cal beneficiaries additional support.

Before joining the Harbage Team, Chris was a project manager and medical scribe for physicians representing varied medical disciplines and hospitals throughout Southern California. As a program manager, he was responsible for interviewing, hiring, and training personnel for several medical transcription programs he built from the ground up. Additionally, his experience working formerly as an emergency paramedic and fire fighter supplements his medical expertise and informs his decision-making when assisting his colleagues in implementing public health programs.

Chris holds a Bachelor of Arts in Musicology from the University of California at Davis and an Associate of Science in Emergency Medical Services - Paramedic from Mt. San Antonio College in Walnut, CA. Chris enjoys spending his free time with his family, cooking and eating delicious foods with the people he loves, and adventuring in the mountains or under the sea with a scuba tank or two.
