

Madison Rasmussen

Junior Strategic Communications
& Public Affairs Specialist

madison@harbageconsulting.com

Madison Rasmussen works with clients and partners to develop and implement communications plans and strategies that strengthen the health care delivery system.

Prior to joining Harbage Consulting, Madison led marketing efforts for a technology startup in Eugene, Oregon, where she embraced the challenge of growing a small company into the international operation it is today. Madison has also worked in public diplomacy for the State Department and health care communications in Cape Town, South Africa.

Madison was born and raised in the Pacific Northwest and graduated from the University of Oregon School of Journalism and Communication. In her free time she can be found reading, traveling, or drinking coffee on her porch.
